Reforms of Khalifa Umar (R:)

①

Hazrat Umar al-Faruq, the father of the modern administration and the greatest ruler, ruled over (634-644 A.D.) the vast muslim Empire. Extremely dutiful and devoted all his time to the affairs of the state. So, he was able to uphold law and order equally among the solid soldiery as among the members of the public. He flourished every branch of administration historically.

① As an administration:-

Hazrat Umar not only conquered a vast empire during the ten years of this ^{first} ~~phase~~ ^{phase} but he consolidated it by a great system of administration. As an administration he remained a model for all great muslim rulers during the whole of Islamic history. Syed Amir ali says:- "During the thirty years that the republic lasted, the policy derived its character chiefly from Umar, both during his life time and after his death."

② Democratic Administration:-

He framed the constitution of the state on the basis of democracy. The need of democracy planted by Abu Bakhar was found ~~faithful~~ ^{faithful}.

②

growth and development during his reign.

3) Consultative Body:

He has two consultative bodies. These bodies ~~are~~ were called a shurah or council of advisers. In all important affairs, he sought the help of the shurata. Umar emphatically declared - "there can be no Khalifah except by consultation."

④ Arab nationalism:

For the arab nationalism Umar (R) made the Peninsula a purely muslim state. With this end in view he expelled the jews of Khaibar, and the christian of Najran. Secondly, he organized the arabs into a complete religion - military nation. To help the arabians pure and unmixed from the rest of the world, he did not allow them to hold on cultivate landed property outside the peninsula.

⑤ Provincial Act:

③ Hazrat Umar was the founder of the political and ministration of Islam. For the convenience of administration he ~~divided~~ divided the empire into provinces and each province was placed under an efficient governor. The provincial governor was called wali or Amir. Wali was not only the ruler of the province but also the military and religious head. He was responsible to the Khalifah for his ~~and~~ administration. The province were again divided into districts and the districts officer was called the Amil.

⑥ Judiciary:

Hazrat Umar entrusted the Qazi with the judiciary function. The Qazi was completely independent of the provincial governor and received a fixed pay for his duties.

① Revenue Administration:

a) At Ghanimah:

Ghanimah means weapons, horses and all other moveable property taken in battle from non muslim.

④

This Gharimah are divided into five 5 portion where:

① 4 portion was divided among the soldiers who were present in the action.

② Remaining one (1) portion went to Allah (swt) and His prophet.

⇒ Prophet (sm) also divided his portion into 3 portion

(i) 1 portion is for his family

(ii) 1 portion is used to buy equipment of the Army

(iii) Remaining 1 portion is for the public welfare

⑥ Zakat:

In Quran: Surah, Tawba, Ayat: 60 who are eligible for tax levied on definite forms of property. It is collected only from Muslims who had attained the age of majority.

It was levied on ① crops ② Animal ③ Gold and silver ④ Merchandise. In the time of Umar, he imposed Zakat on Horse business.

(c) Al Jizyah:

It was the tax for security of lives and properties from the non muslim for living in Muslim country. It was only given by those who are eligible for going to battle. And amount is :-

- ① 4 diners from Rich
- ② 2 diners from Middle class
- ③ 1 diners from poor people

(d) Al-kharaj:

AL-kharaj was the land tax collected from non muslims. when any non muslim wants to cultivate any portion of land of any muslim state he must give the kharaj. the amount is :-

- ① 1 dirham for barely cultivated per year.
- ② 2 dirham for cultivation for wheat or sugarcane.
- ③ 3 dirham for vegetables
- ④ 5 dirham for cotton.

(e) Al-ushur:

Another sources of revenue is Al ushur, if also called Business tax. it also first implemented by the Umar (R) and the amount is : If any non muslim get profit at least 200 dirham must pay 10% of total as al-ushur.

⑥

② Baytul Mal :

Umar established a treasury in spite of the opposition of Ali and all the amount of baytul mal are stored in state treasury on central bank established in al-Madinah. Also Abdullah bin al-Arqam was appointed as the chief officer of the treasury.

③ Diwan:

Umar first starts the provisions of diwan (Adam shumani) and give all the citizen pension even a new born baby would get 10 dirhams. The persons who has more contribution for Islam, they gets more pension.

④ AL-Gfta:

1st Umar (R) established the Dept. of fundamental rights to ensure the basic rights of his citizen.

⑤ Religious Department:

Umar (R) also established the religious department for appointing the managers of Islam.

⑦

⑥ The police:

Umar (R) also made a group of police for ① patrol police ② Night watchers

⑦ Prisons:

For the 1st time in Islam Umar (R) established prisons in Makkah. Umar (R) was responsible for introducing exile as a punishment.

⑧ Sunah:

There was no khalifah without shurah. Umar (R) was established as a institutional form of shurah.

⑨ Al-Qadi:

According to the theory of Islamic Law, Qadi had to be a male adult in full possession of the mental faculties a free, citizen muslim in faith, irreproachable in character, sound mind and well versed in the prescriptions of Law. In some case Umar (R) tested the judging capacity of the judges. He paid the Qadies more higher so that they might not be driven to the necessity of taking bribes. And all Qadies are appointed by Umar.

(8)

Public works:

Umar established at every province, headquarter. A Govt. House, a secretarial and bazar, Prison houses, and rest house etc. Roads and bridges were constructed some very big canals and a large number of smaller ones were dug-out for irrigational and navigational purposes and who for provide pure drinking water to the citizen. ~~he also~~ He also built several new towns as his public works.

② Contribution of Abu bakr to the Islam. ①

Abu bakr

Abu bakr was born at Makkah in 572 C.E. He was three years junior of Prophet (sm). He was born in the tribe of Bani Taim of the Gunaish. He is the first man out side the prophet family who accept Islam. He was a rich merchant of Makkah. Most of his wealth was used in liberation of muslim slaves. He was the first person to build Mosque. After conversion to Islam.

⑨

He was a constant companion of the Holy prophet. The Holy prophet conferred on him in the title of "siddiq" on the occasion of the "Hizrat". He was the companion of the Holy prophet. He participated in all the battles fought by the Holy prophet. He was the first person to be appointed as Amirul Hujj in the history of Islam.

Election of Abu Bakar as Khalifah

After the death of prophet (sm), the members of shurah are in thinks to whom be made as khalifah, after that Hazrat Umar (R) declare his opinion on Abu-bakar as his khalifah and all other members of shura says this is good decision and we also think so. And by this way the Abu bakar was elected as the 1st khalifah of the Islam. The prophet has already indicated this in a manner by asking Abu Bakar to take his place at the daily prayers during his last illness.

10
⑧

Abu-bakar as the savior of Islam:

The primary situation of Khalifah of Abu-bakar was very ruthless. He face three problems at the time of his ascension:

- ① Many tribes apostatised from Islam.
- ② Many tribes refused to pay zakat.
- ③ Many false prophet rose.

After that, Hazarat Abu bakr made some campaign to solve these problems.

① Campaign against the apostates:

Abu bakr decided to take military action against the apostate tribes. The muslim force was divided into eleven (11) corps, each under its own commander. Each commander were handed over a standard and assigned a specified objective. These corps were to operate in various parts of the country. The commanders were instructed that.

11
① before taking any action against an apostate tribe it should be called upon to return to Islam. and punitive action should be taken only in the event of the refusal of the tribe to offer to Islam. That was to be indicative of the tribes return to Islam. and these operation were over by february 632 CE within the short space of six month and all the tribes of Arabia return to fold of Islam.

② ⇒ Campaign to established zakat: When the tribes around the Madinah said that. They were prepared to owe allegiance to Islam but they were not prepared to pay zakat. Abu bakr held that as the payment of ~~any~~ zakat was a compulsory obligation under Islam, he had no authority to allow any relaxation. Abul-Bakr remained firm and told the tribes that if they withheld with regard to zakat even as much as a string to tie a camel, he would fight against them for the violation of the injunction of Islam. Resist the recalcitrant tribes marched to Madinah one night and launched the attack. The tribes met some initial success. But the Muslim under the command of Abu-Bakr rallied, get together and in counter attack repulsed the tribes.

And by this, the Hazrat Abu Bakr established again the obligation of zakat in Arab.

③ ⇒ Campaign against the false prophets :-

After the death of prophet (SAAS) and during the Khalifa of Abu Bakr, some false prophets rose in Arab firstly :-

The most notorious was Musailima who lead the Banu Hanifa in Yamame. Musailima further gained in strenght when he made common cause with sajjah a lady who claimed to be prophet, and married her. A muslim Tr under Ikramah attacked the Banu Hanifa in the first instance. Another muslim force under Shurahbil attacked ~~musailma~~ musailma thereafter, but was also defeated. At this critical crisis Abu Bakr called upon Khalid bin Walid to undertake operations against musailma.

The boldness of the move of Khalid took Banu Hanifa completely by surprise and musailma lost his nerves by and retreated to a neighbouring fortified garden. The garden was surrounded by huge wall and closed the gate. The muslim Army broke open the gate and Musailma were cut to pieces in large number. This Battle is called the battle of the garden of Death. When musailma fell dead. The Banu Hanifa surrendered, accepted terms and were re-admitted to the fold of Islam.

In Oman, a false prophet Laqit Malik rose and captured political power. A 14

A muslim force under Hudhaifah was sent to oman. In the battle of Daba laquit and ten thousand of his followers were killed. The oman forces surrendered and the people of oman were recommended to Islam.

Thirdly:

In yemen, a false prophet Aswad Amri came to power and won a considerable following. Abu bkr ordered two pronged to attack on yemen. In the battle that followed the apostate tribes were over-powered and were recommended to Islam after Aswad Amri has been killed.

so, After all we can say that by fulfilling all arising problems during His period (632-634) Abu bkr proved to be the saviour of Islam.

SHURA

Allah said in the Quran: "And consult them on the matter of governance." Both in theory and in practice the Shura (consultation) was included as an essential part of the Islamic state. Prophet (Sm.) applied it in his private and public life, and Shura was fully acted upon by the early rulers of Islam. Although it had been practiced before, Prophet (Sm.) formed it as institutional form.

✓ Definition

The word "Shura" literally means "consultation", to take decision by consultation or discussion. And it constitutes the title of the 42nd chapter of the Quran.

When most of the specific qualified persons are in final decision by discussing each other about a matter is called Shura. In this system, the democratic poses are seen clearly.

Importance of Shura

① Shura is essential in every sphere of our life such as personal, social or political life. Specially it is the most essential to take important decision of the state. So, Shura is the part and parcel of the Islamic state machinery.

Prophet (Sm.) emphasised on Shura and he felt its significance ruling over Islamic state in his life. Omar (R) declared clearly "There can be no Khilafat except by consultation." Apparently the state without practicing consultation is filled down in the cause of autocracy.

Classification

Shura is divided into types:

1. Shura-i-Amm
2. Shura-i-Khash

Shura is held according to the circumstances and specific conditions. Shura-i-Khash is held with very particular qualified personalities. On the other hand Shura-i-Amm is consisted of general people.

Origin & Development

Shura in Pre-Islamic Arab: In pre-Islamic Arab, most of the towns in Arabia and all tribes who inhabited that land had their own councils wherein affairs of common interest were discussed and settled. Both the republican tendency and the desire to conduct their own affairs by consulting among themselves were inherent in the people of Arabia.

S.A.Q. Husaini said (Constitution of the Arab Empire, page-103) that we see that Makkah had three kinds of councils or assemblies: the central city council which was known as the Mala; Tribal or ward council Majlis for various tribes who lived in different parts of the city; and the General Assembly of all citizens were met as "Nadi Sawm" which met occasionally to decide matters of great importance. In Madina, there were as many ward councils or communes as there were tribes or clans in the municipal area. They were called Nadi and tribal council the Majlis.

✓ Shura in the time Prophet (Sm.)

In conformity with the earlier practice, and also in obedience to the verse of the Quran, Prophet (Sm.) constantly consulted a few selected companions drawn from the Muhajirin and Answar. But on a few occasions, when serious matters affecting the life and death of the young state had to be decided, he summoned the General Assembly of all Muslims. Thus from the beginning the Prophet (Sm.) set up the convention of consulting the general body of the Muslim on all important matters and a few experts in matters of detail.

✓ Shura under Abu Bakr (R.)

The first Khalif, Abu Bakr (R.), had fully followed the role of the Prophet (Sm.) and he organised Shura as a powerful institution. Though he always used to decide by consulting, he would not listen to the advice of Shura on two points.

Firstly he placed young boy Usamah b. Zayed in command of the Muta expeditions and repressed the revolt through Arabia against the compulsory levy of az-Zakat. In fact, Usamah's expedition was a great success and a relentless war against the rebels saved the useful institution of az-Zakat. Actually, Abu Bakr (R.) had strong tendency

✓ Shura under Umar (R.)

Under Umar that we get a detail picture of the working of the government by consultation. The institution Shura reached its highest position in that time. Two important General Assemblies convened during his Khilafat, one on the eve of the battle of al-Qadisiyah to decide whether or not the Khalifah should lead the forces in person and the other to conclude if the conquered lands in Iraq and Syria should be divided amongst the warriors or not. He institutionally formed Shura into two types: Shura-i-Amm and Shura-i-Khas. During his time most honourable and prominent followers of Prophet (sm.) were the members of Shura-i-Khas.

✓ Shura under Uthman (R.)

The institution of the council of the shura was continued properly under Uthman (R.). But on one important occasion Uthman summoned a conference of his Governors rather than the council of the leaders of the Islamic revolution. However, the Shura played important role to turn the government under Uthman (R.).

Under Ali (R.)

In spite of facing continuously disturbed by civil strife, Ali consulted in his time with the members of Shura. He was the best interest of Shura in the governing of the state. He would not take any decision except Shura and he acted upon about the institutions like his previous three Khaliphs.

Under Umayyads

Muawiyah (R.) did not act upon like pious Khaliphs about Shura. Umayyad rulers didn't practice on Shura. Only Second Umar (Umar ibn Abdul Aziz) tried to revive the institution even before he became Khaliph. When he succeed to the Khalifat, he assembled the citizens of Damascus and addressed them. He endeavored to get around him as many of the best men among scholars or divines as possible. The another Khaliph Yazid (iii) assembled the citizens and elected him Khaliph.

Under Abbasids

Under the early Abbasids prominent members of the ruling family as well as those of the families which were faithful to the dynasty were consulted by the ruler. Al-Mamun established constitutionally "A regular Council of the State."

He ensured authentic and constructive consultation from the representatives of the people. In later, all of the muslim dynasties had their own councils in which the people were more or less represented.

Merits and demerits of Shura

Shura is the exposition of the democratic process. "Taking appropriate and decisive decision in every sector of the state is only possible by shura." Moreover, the Prophet (sm.) said: If the taken decision by consultation not to be right, Allah, of course, will give kindness on the decision. But if the council is not adorned with real qualified persons, this kind of Shura will be the main cause for declines of the state.

Shura is the most important function of the Islamic state that is guide to the stability and expansion of the Islamic state. Virtually, it is embodied of political, democratic and religious matters altogether.
